at a time when teaching and learning policy too often presents itself in a simplistic input output language of measurable targets and objectives the affected teacher explores the role played by emotionality in how professional life is experienced by school teachers the book argues that in the very highly organised and structured social spaces of public institutions emotionality or more precisely all that is included in the concept of affect needs to be recognised and validated rather than ignored or pathologised it explores how neoliberal education policy seeks to mould professional subjectivities relationships and practices how teachers experience and manage their feelings and the role that affect plays in guiding either compliance with or resistance to often unpopular policy directives drawing on a rich body of original data comprising formal and informal discussions with a range of teachers the case is argued for psychoanalytically and politically informed individual and group reflexivity both as a form of professional and personal development and as a way of keeping alive alternative beliefs and understandings regarding the purposes of education the affected teacher is relevant to practising schoolteachers and to undergraduate and graduate students and academics involved in education related courses such as policy studies education management and the sociology of education as well as disciplines related to psychosocial studies and psychoanalysis
